Role of Citizenship in Governance

SRIKANTH VISWANATHAN

Chief Executive Officer

Janaagraha Centre for Citizenship and Democracy

Mr. Srikanth is one of India's leading practitioners of city governance reforms and municipal finance, particularly on the application of systems thinking to reform agendas in cities. He has been a member of the NITI Aayog's (Government of India's think-tank) expert group on urban governance, and a member of the Committee on Accounting Standards for Local Bodies of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India for over four years. In his current role, he is responsible for all aspects of strategy and execution of Janaagraha's programs across civic learning, civic participation and city-system reforms.

Abstract:

Why are our cities the way they are? Polluted air and lakes, garbage dumps on the streets, traffic jams, poor public transport, water problems—the list seems endless. None of us is happy with the state of affairs and the state of our cities appears to be worsening by the year rather than improving or even just remaining the same. The question before us is what can each of us do about it?
